The ElectricLight Problem.

After years of service the Bastin Brothers are making an effort to escape their liability on their bond by reason of a technical defect in the Electric Light Franchise.

The question uppermost in the public mind is whether or not this objection would have been urged if the cost of labor and material had not greatly increased in price since the Franchise was purchased?

PERHAPS IT MIGHT BE WELL ENOUGH FOR THE BASTIN BROTHERS TO LOOK BEFORE THEY LEAP.

In the expansion of their business they induced many enterprises to install electric motors to drive their machinery, and many of their patrons were required to rewire their premises in part so that a meter could elgibly be installed, besides they were compelled to put aside their old lamps, and purchase an entire new outfit of electric lamps of a different voltage to that heretofore used.

If they should close down on August the first, as they threaten to do, they certainly lay themselves liable to refund to their patrons the moneys they were compelled to expend in making preparations to apply their systems. BELIEVING THEM TO BE ACTING IN PERFECT GOOD FAITH and I certainly will demand that they refund to me the amount I have been compelled to expend and should it become necessary, I will unite with any number of their patrons to compel a restitution for these outlays and any other damages we may suffer by reason of the closing down of their plant.

If the Bastin Brothers KNOWINGLY procured this Franchise illegally granted and it should become vitiated on their motion, it follows that everything done under the Franchise has been done illegally, and it is a question whether or not they should not be made to refund all the money's they have heretofore collected for services rendered.

John W. Miller.

Walker.

Friends and relatives here were grieved to learn of the death of Mr. Dan B. Walker, which occurred on June 9th, at Long Beach, California, where he had lived since last November. In 1897 he with his estimable family moved to Texas from their home near Kirksville, in Madison county.

He is survived by his widow, who is a sister of Messrs James and Joe Burnside of this city and also leaves seven children they being: Mrs. R. P. Fox, Mrs. W. B. Sheppard, Dr. Wade H. Walker, David V. Walker, Bates D. Walker and Messrs Mark D. and James B. Walker, all of whom are residents of Wichita, Texas.

He leaves two brothers, Messrs J. J. Walker of this city and David V. Walker, of Winnsboro, S. C. A kind and indulgent father and grandfather, a man of high integrity, exceedingly popular and leaves many friends here who will be made sad to hear of his passing.

The daily Press of Long Beach has the following to say concerning his death:

"Daniel Bates Walker, aged 77, whose home has been at 1437 East Second street since last November, died in this city this morning after a six weeks' illness. He was born in Kentucky in 1843 and was connected with many of the prominent old families of Central Kentucky. He was a staunch democrat and southern gentleman of the old school. With his wife and a daughter, Mrs. W. B. Sheppard, he came here last fall from Wichita Falls, Texas, where he had resided for twenty three years. He was the father of five sons—four are business men of Wichita Falls, Tex., and one at Claude Tex. His eldest daughter, Mrs. R. P. Fox, has been with him for the past month.

He had been a member of the Presbyterian church for thirty-one years. Funeral services will be held at the Mottell chapel at 10 o'clock Thursday morning, and burial made at Sunnyside cemetery."

AWARDEDFirst Class Certificate.

Miss Mildred Beazley, who was tendered and has accepted a position in the Graded School here, has just been awarded a first class certificate by the state board of education. Out of seven examinations for these certificates only two passed successfully, one of them being Miss Beazley. She will take a summer course at the Eastern State Normal at Richmond to better prepare her for the work which she will take up in September.

THE PASSINGOF "UNCLE AL".*A Pioneer Osceola Business Man Answers The Summons.

A. S. Stewart died at Leavenworth, Kansas, on Saturday last and the remains were brought to Osceola Tuesday for burial in the Osceola cemetery.

Alfred Shelby Stewart was born in Danville, Ky., May 7, 1835, and was therefore 85 years and 28 days of age.

He received his education in Centre College, Danville, graduating in the same class with the late Senator Geo. V. Vest and Judge John F. Phillips. After his graduation he took up the study of pharmacy and entered into the drug business. At the beginning of the civil war he enlisted in the Federal army and was captured and confined for nine months in Andersonville, the worst hole in all the south commander of which was afterwards court martialled and executed for inhumanity. With other prisoners he escaped by digging a tunnel beyond the sentries and after several weeks wading streams and passing barefooted over rough and frozen ground he reached the Federal lines and rejoined his regiment, the Fourth Kentucky, and was made captain of Company "K", serving until he was mustered out at the close of hostilities.

On November 29th, 1865, he was married to Miss Nannie Lucas and in 1871 he came to Osceola and purchased a drug store, and this has been his home principally ever since. No children were born to this union and Mrs. Stewart died here some ten years ago. He served two terms as county collector, the only political office to which he ever aspired.

He was converted and united with Grace Methodist Episcopal church in 1878 and remained a faithful and consistent member to the end, serving for years as superintendent of the Sunday School. The funeral was held on Tuesday afternoon from the church he loved so well and served so faithfully, the eulogy being delivered by the Rev. C. F. Green in more than his usual forceful and eloquent style, after which the remains were laid beside his wife in the cemetery which she named "God's Acre," there to await the reveille on the resurrection morn. Peaceful be his slumber and may his reward be equal to the justice and mercy with which he judged his fellowmen on earth.

The above article is taken from the Osceola Democrat. The deceased will be remembered by many of our older citizens and was a brother of the late Mrs. Harriett Price and an uncle of the Price Brothers of this county.

KINNAIRD BROS.,Close Deal for Garage.

Kinnaird Brothers, who have made the Dodge Brothers cars so popular in this county, closed a deal last week for the Dixie Garage, buying out the interests of Charlie Sanders, who purchased the building several months ago of J. T. Raney. This will make an ideal home for the Dodge Cars, being one of the best buildings in the city and centrally located. Since taking over the agency for this car, Kinnaird Brothers have increased their business several hundred fold and today can scarcely supply the demand. We congratulate them on their success.

JETT FARM

One of the biggest farm sales that will be held here this season will soon be announced by Col. James I. Hamilton, of Garrard County, who came over Monday and bought the Shelby Jett farm. This place contains about 107 acres and is located in what is considered by many as the best tobacco growing section of Madison County. Mr. Hamilton purchased the place from Mrs. Shelby Jett and her son, Covington Jett, who bought the place jointly at the time of settlement of the estate of the late Shelby Jett. It is understood that in making sale of the place it will be subdivided into small tracts, to which it is especially adapted. Mr. Hamilton has been one of the most successful land buyers and dealers in Central Kentucky the past several years, and his sale announcement will be awaited with much interest by those who are looking for some exceptionally good tobacco and general farming land, such as the Jett farm is known to be. —Richmond Register.

BOOST THECHAUTAUQUA*Buy Season Tickets Now and Save Money

It is without doubt the best clean entertainment we have during the year and all at a price that is ridiculously low considering the value in a musical and educational way that is given to our people. Every man and woman in Garrard County should be a live wire when it comes to helping to make this Chautauqua a huge success. Buy season tickets for the family and save 50 per cent over the price of the single admission.

There is nothing that will do you and your family more good than to attend this Chautauqua every day. It will give you a wider outlook on life and get you in touch with the best thought of the day. It will take your mind off of your troubles and make you better in every way. We hope the country people will come each day and bring the family. The price of a season ticket is only $2.50, children's tickets $1.25 and it is worth three times the cost. There will be a new tent this year which will make it more comfortable. Season tickets may now be had at the Citizens Bank or from Mrs. W. B. Burton, Vice Chairman in charge of sales.

SAVE YOUR CORNBuy A Martin Corn Saver Crib.

The United States Government has for years been trying to impress upon the farmers of this county, the immense amount of corn that is being annually destroyed by rats, statistics showing that no less than twenty per cent of this important crop is lost each year through these worthless rodents. Farmers of the north and east long since learned that the most effective remedy is to buy a rat proof crib. Messrs Sanders and Farra are agents for the famous Martin Steel Corn Crib and have sold a dozen or more of them. They are telling the people of the county about this wonderful crib in an advertisement in this issue of the Record. Read it.

The whole community was shocked last Thursday to learn of the sudden death of Miss Martha A. Stephens which occurred at the Kentucky school for the Deaf at Danville at 3.50 o'clock that morning. Miss Stephens was in a happy frame of mind during the evening having spent it with a party of friends. At three o'clock next morning she was seized with an attack of heart trouble and the doctor hurriedly called, and every thing loving hands could do was done, but to avail. At first her suffering was intense, but soon all pain left and she said to those at her bed side, "I am going to die", and breathed her last, crossing the river of Death like a child going to sleep and her passing was both painless and beautiful.

Miss Stephens was born near Lancaster October 24th 1848 and was in her 72nd year. It was but fitting that she should die at Danville in the house in which her life had been spent, she having been connected with the Kentucky school for the Deaf sixty years as pupil, teacher and supervisor of girls.

Miss Stephens was the daughter of James Allen Stephens and Zerelda J. Stephens, and step-daughter of the late A. B. Brown Sr., who had reared her and loved her as his very own. Hers was a beautiful and useful life. Her funeral was preached at Danville in the School building by Dr. Frank Cheek, interpreted most beautifully by Mr. Carter, the remains being brought to Lancaster for interment where the services were concluded by Dr. E. B. Bourland of the Christian church of which she had been a member for fifty-eight years, interpreted by Dr. Augustus Rogers, Supt. of the school for Deaf at Danville. This was the first funeral in the sign language ever held in this town and was very impressive.

Miss Stephens is survived by her half-brother, George F. Brown of this county and two half-sisters, Mrs. William Steele Holman and Miss Abbie B. Brown both of Louisville.

Her pall bearers were three deaf friends, Messrs McClure, Read and Marcossan, and hearing friends Dr. Rogers, Mr. Lanier of the Board and Mr. Wiseman, all of Danville.

LACK OF FUNDSForces All Road Work In County to Cease.

Money Being Sought For Richmond Pike.

It takes money to "make the mare go" and as Garrard county road fund has long been exhausted and all the money that the banks can advance has been borrowed, up to the county's borrowing capacity, all work on the county roads had to be suspended last Saturday until the treasury can be replenished. Work is still in progress on the Richmond road, but unless relief can be had in the next few weeks or until the next levy comes in, work on this project will have to be suspended, so says County Road Supervisor, Dr. J. A. Amon.

The entire county levy for road purposes amounts to about $38,000 and this amount will have to be expended on the Richmond pike alone, says Dr. Amon. Of course the state will re-emburse the county for one half of this project, but not until the road is completed and accepted by the state.

The bond issue that carried so unanimously last March, provides that some of this money is to be spent on the Richmond road, as it is a part of the Federal Highway which passes through the county. But it is now questionable whether this money can be used at this time, the matter being under consideration by Judge Stapp and others.

It is unfortunate indeed that the work will have to cease, as the roads of the county are in bad need of repairs, all of which should be done before the fall rains set in if possible. We hope the matter can be worked out and the work continued.

People Or Bosses.

Why continue the old method of party conventions for the selection of candidates for the presidency?

Why not let the voters of a party record their own choice of a candidate at the party primary and have the result certified by the county clerk to the national committee of that party, instead of sending delegates at great personal expense to a convention to say what their constituents have already said?

If some such law could be enacted we would be rid of the iniquitous convention rule entirely, and unscrupulous delegates would no longer be able to dicker and trade and effect secret combinations for their own personal gain, as we strongly suspect is frequently the case.

The framers of the constitution intended that every voter should enjoy a free and inalienable right to an expression of his choice in the selection of public officials. It was not intended that this choice should be warped and twisted by party chiefs behind closed doors, as is too often the case under the convention system.

Here is an example.

A dozen or two men may be running for the nomination within a certain party. One of these men may receive a greater number of all of the votes cast at the various primaries than any other candidate. It would seem that in all fairness he should be entitled to the nomination. If not, why ask the people to express a choice at all?

Yet in the convention, because of the large number of candidates and the numerous scattering votes, he may be one or two votes short of the necessary majority of all votes cast by the delegates. If he is unable to entice the delegates of some other candidate away from their allegiance, he loses the nomination.

And right there is the weak plank in the whole convention structure. It lets the bars down for all kinds of dicker and bartering and selling of delegates votes, possibly resulting in the nomination of some unknown quantity whom the people do not want at all, but whom the bosses think they can control if he is fortunate enough to win the election.

Of course, to abolish the convention system would deprive the party chiefs and bosses of their control of the nomination, and possibly of their control of patronage after election.

But the chiefs and bosses are few, while the common voters are legion.

Why should the few override the wishes of the many in this presumably free country?

Why be boss ridden when we can just as well be self governed?

Why not let the people be the people, instead of being pawns of men who think of themselves first, of votes next, and of their country last of all?

BANKERS'Meet Next Friday At Crab Orchard Springs

President H. G. Skiles, of Group Eight of the Kentucky Bankers' Association, has had printed at this office a program of the session that will be held at Crab Orchard Springs next Friday, 18th. The members of this group are those bankers of the Eighth Congressional district and many of them are expected to attend the meeting. Many subjects will be discussed and at night a banquet will be enjoyed at the Springs, when Attorney J. E. Robinson, of Lancaster, will be toastmaster. The speakers at the banquet include Hon. Claude Minor, of Perryville, Judge Ralph Gilbert, of Shelbyville, Mr. R. E. Turley, of Richmond, and R. N. Cook of Nicholasville. Cashier J. Fleece Robinson of the Lincoln County National Bank, will lead the discussion on "Why Higher Rates of Interest," and Mr. J. S. Hocker, president of the First National, will have for his subject, "The Present Financial Stringency—Its Causes and Remedies." Rev. Glenn B. Murdock, of Crab Orchard, will invoke Divine blessings on the meeting and Assistant Cashier O. Raymond Skiles, of the Crab Orchard Banking Co., will deliver the address of welcome.—Interior Journal.

An Interesting Letter.Building A Community Around The School—Prize Letter.

Our community interest centers in our new consolidated high school and its improvement. Men and women, boys and girls, are all interested.

In 1914 a vote was taken as to whether the districts should be consolidated, a building erected in the central district and transportation provided for the pupils. The voters said "No."

Those who were better posted and more deeply interested, however, did not drop the matter there but worked on to educate the people along that line and to arouse interest, so that if the chance again came to improve our schools by consolidating, the people would look at it with a different view.

Early in 1918 a fund was raised to purchase a site on which to erect a building which would provide accommodations for the pupils in Buckeye District, any graded school pupils above sixth grade and any pupils in the division who could take up high school work. After this fund had been subscribed and a canvass had been made by some of the trustees and myself to guarantee a certain number of pupils from the division, the county superintendent and educational board made the appropriation and a handsome building was erected. The site consists of about two acres and cost about $1,000. The building cost $8,200, equipment more than $1,000. The dedication of the building took place early in May of last year. The school was opened in July and closed in March. During the term a number of literary programs were rendered, which gave an opportunity for the patrons to be brought together in a social way.

The grounds were set with trees and flowers on Arbor Day by the teachers and pupils.

Early in the term a good piano was purchased by subscription and a concrete walk and steps were paid for in the same way.

A Health League had been organized several years ago and now has a fund with which to build a sanitary closet.

Just now I have taken up the matter of providing a library with some of the women and girls, and we hope to have at least a good foundation laid in that direction by the time our next school term begins in July.

Each of us expects to donate any volumes we have that we feel are suitable and that we can spare. A good set of reference books is at our disposal as a loan and we expect to find means whereby a fund may be raised to purchase new books. We propose to provide some historical, travel, agricultural, vocational and religious books as well as some good clean fiction and poetry. Some of us expect to pass our magazines along in this way.

The erection of a "teachorage" is being discussed, and I believe will take place within the next year.

The betterment of our school is helping our community in many ways and will continue to do so.

We women, I believe, have more time to think and plan for school improvement and if the men do not start the improvements we should.

Mrs. John Land, Garrard County, Kentucky.

HARDING WINSDark Horse Candidate from Ohio Draws the Coveted Plum.*CALVIN COOLIDGE NAMED AS RUNNING MATE

Warren G. Harding, United States Senator from Ohio, was nominated for the Presidency Saturday by the Republican National Convention, after a deadlock which lasted for nine ballots and which finally forced out of the running all the original favorites.

As his running mate the convention named Gov. Calvin Coolidge, of Massachusetts, upsetting a plan of a combination of the Harding backers to nominate for the place Senator Irvin L. Lenroot, of Wisconsin.

The collapse of the forces of Gov. Frank O. Lowden and their transfer in late part to Senator Harding put the Ohio man over.

Gen. Wood lost heavily, however, when the Harding drift began, and Senator Johnson, the third of a trio of leaders on the early balloting Friday, also went steadily down hill.

Entering the convention as one of the "dark horses", Senator Harding got only sixty-four votes on the first ballot. When the convention adjourned Friday night, at the end of the fourth ballot, he had only sixty-one. Saturday afternoon just before the recess was taken his strength had increased and his total was 133. Almost as soon as the alphabetical call of states began after recess, the ground swell for Harding demonstrated it could not be forestalled. The landslide was complete on the tenth ballot when he was given 692 votes.

Warren G. Harding is 55 years old and was born in Blooming Grove, O., the son of a country doctor and the eldest of eight children. Harding lived the life of a farmer during his boyhood and attended the rural schools, earning his way thru Ohio Central College.

He worked at various trades to send himself thru college, one summer painting barns, the next driving a truck and a third year teaching school at the age of 17. But it was the print shop that attracted young Harding most. He learned the printing trade from top to bottom and in 1884 took over the management of the Marion, Ohio Star from his father who had moved from Blooming Grove. The paper was a greater liability than it was an asset, and it was "tough sledding" for several years. Harding was all things in the paper office from printer to managing editor. He married in 1891, Miss Florence Kling, the daughter of Amos Kling, a business man of Marion. They have no children. He entered politics in 1899, serving in the State Senate from that year until 1903. He became lieutenant-governor in 1903 and served until 1906.

Altho he obtained the nomination easily, Harding was defeated in a race for governor on the Republican ticket in 1910. The Ohio voters sent him to the United States Senate in 1914 with a majority of more than 102,000 despite the fact that in the same year Ohio passed to the Democratic column.

The Republican nominee knows how to smile even under defeat. This was shown in the 1910 Ohio Campaign when he opposed Judson Harmon for governor and was defeated by the Democratic candidate by assistance from Theodore Roosevelt, more than 100,000 despite campaign

A New LineOf Phonographs.

There are over 300 talking machines on the market today. Mrs. Amon feels she has found the best. She has been making a study of the various makes in view of purchasing a good one for her home. After some communications with the Sonora Company of New York, its advance agent came to Lancaster to demonstrate their line.

The agency was offered Mrs. Amon and she now has three styles in her home and will take pleasure in introducing this line of high class machines to her friends and especially those contemplating the purchase of an instrument.

The pre-eminent characteristic of the Sonora is its rich musical tone.

"It's now or never, girl. The train goes inside of ten minutes. It's come, or good-by. Now Rachel, decide and be quick about it."

"Oh, Jake! I love you dearly, but the baby here? Let me run home with it and leave it with mistress."

"I've said my say. It would delay me six hours to miss this train."

"But I can't leave the baby as if it was a piece of luggage!"

"Yes, you can. Put the baby on the park bench beside that innocent faced young fellow yonder. Ask him to mind it for a few minutes. I'll scribble Miss Dole's address on a card. Slip it into the baby's clothing. When you don't come back he will find it."

"But what will they think of my abandoning the little dear in this cruel way?"

"Save your sentiment for me, if you've got any to spare."

"And my two week's wages?"

"I've got plenty of money. Don't fret on that score."

Thus Rachel Mine and Jacob Datter, the former the average nurse girl, the latter a young man who had worked as a barber when he worked at all. His flashy ways had fascinated the comely maid, he had courted her briefly, but persistently, and now with the prospect in view of a new and better situation in another city he put the question plump of immediate marriage.

The young man they had indicated suggested an easy, accommodating person of a kindly nature. Alvin Stanley was not much experienced in worldly ways. He was reasonably fortunate as to means and position. When the artful Rachel placed the sleeping babe on the bench beside him and said: "Please mind the child for a few moments, will you?" Stanley readily replied: "Certainly, Miss," and beamed down at the serene face of the infant.

He treated his involuntary charge as daintily and carefully as though it were a precious piece of fragile bric-a-brac, as at the end of five minutes it awoke. It first stared at him steadily, then its little mouth was wreathed with a seraphic smile, and then as he cooed to it and dangled his watch before its dazzled eyes it consented to remain quiet for a few minutes. It was when it began to whimper that Stanley grew alarmed. He picked it up and moved it to and fro in his arms, and as its complaints grew louder he became decidedly concerned.

"I don't see what keeps its mother or, nurse, or whoever she is," he soliloquized uneasily, but in vain he strained his gaze in the direction the nurse had gone, for he gained no further sight of her, and never would. The baby grew more and more demonstrative as the minutes wore on. Stanley took to walking with it, which somewhat soothed its hunger and impatience. An hour went by. The babe began to make a violent outcry. People passing him staring, others indignant.

"I can't stand this!" declared Stanley, "but what am I ever going to do?" Then he turned cold all over as he recalled newspaper stories he had read where children had been abandoned to the mercy of confiding strangers. Stanley waited another half an hour. Then he formed a decision.

"I'll take it home," he resolved. "Mrs. Morse will know how to care for it and tell me what to do."

Mrs. Morse had been a rock of refuge ever since his mother had died. For 30 years a favorite family servant he had retained her in service at the old home, and hailing a taxi he was soon relieved of the strain of the occasion.

She was a motherly, warm-hearted creature and the idea of a baby in the house seemed to brighten up the old soul magically. She heard Stanley's story.

"I don't see what you can do but advertise, or something like," she observed.

"Maybe—maybe we could keep the little cherub?" timidly suggested Stanley, enraptured as the infant, its wants attended, clasped his big finger caressingly in its little hand.

It was an hour later when Mrs. Morse appeared from the impromptu nursery established, quite excited:

"I found this card in the little one's clothing," she reported. "It reads: 'Take the child to Miss Marcia Dole, 910 Waverly place.'"

Instantly it was a second taxi and in half an hour Stanley found himself ringing the door bell of the place indicated. A servant came to the door, looked pale and agitated.

"Does a little child belong here," began Stanley stammering.

"Oh, Miss Dole, quick! quick! Here's word about the missing little one," and a young lady with traces of tears in her eyes hurried to the spot. Her rare loveliness made Stanley embarrassed, but he managed to tell his story. Miss Marcia Dole insisted that they go at once for the child, which belonged to her sister who had left her in charge of the infant while she went on a visit to another city.

In rapturous joy Miss Dole took the child in her arms when they reached the Stanley home.

"See," she said, as the little one extended its arms towards Stanley. "Eva wishes to kiss you."

Stanley pressed his lips to the babe's cheek, little dreaming then that before a dozen weeks had passed by he would duplicate the act upon the sweet red lips of its lovely aunt.

THORNHILL WAGONS

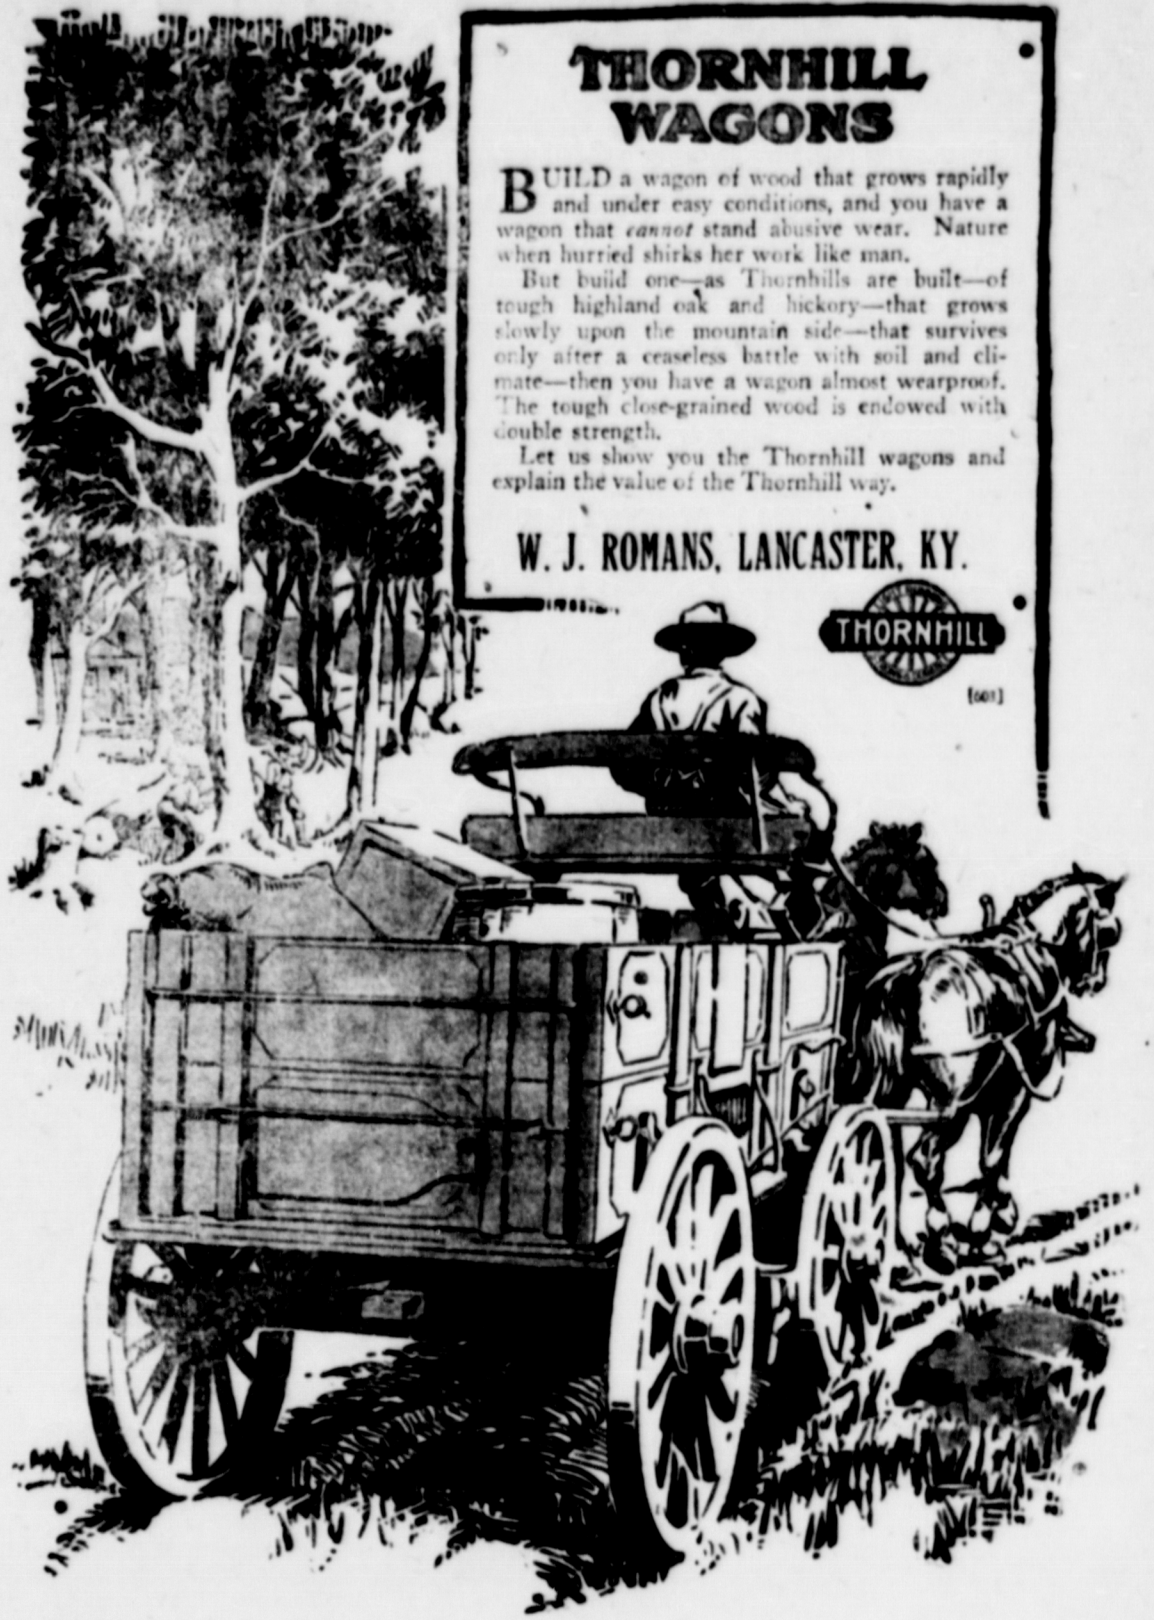

BUILD a wagon of wood that grows rapidly and under easy conditions, and you have a wagon that cannot stand abusive wear. Nature when hurried shirks her work like man.

But build one—as Thornhills are built—of tough highland oak and hickory—that grows slowly upon the mountain side—that survives only after a ceaseless battle with soil and climate—then you have a wagon almost wearproof. The tough close-grained wood is endowed with double strength.

Let us show you the Thornhill wagons and explain the value of the Thornhill way.

What is a smile? Our office devil says it is the spirit of kindness oozing out from a good heart. And he isn't far off at that. Did you ever contrast a smile of a good man and that of a bad one? The smile of the good man conveys a spirit of friendship and brotherly love, while that of the bad man more often resembles the grin of a hyena. If you don't believe it, pull off a smiling contest between one of each. In ten minutes the man of decency will be warming up to his work, while the disciple of depravity will be ready to fight.

Is the cost of the daily meals worrying you? Then spend twice the time in chewing your food. You will feel better, be more satisfied, and will eat less. Most people are content to bolt down their food and leave nature to do what they should have done themselves. Nature becomes overworked, and soon calls a halt. Then comes a bad stomach, poor digestion, peevishness, excitability, and a general weakness of productive powers. No person can do justice as a producer unless he is in good health, and good health can only be maintained by a proper mastication of food.

The Cat And The Bird.

A short time ago a male and a female bird mated and built their nest in the forks of a tree. In time there were some little birds, just out of their shells.

In an incautious moment the female bird became food for a cat, and the little birds were left motherless, with only the father bird to feed them and mother them through the perils of infancy.

It is so with the human species. There are too many cats to prey upon the mothers of the race. It is destroying the best of humanity, weakening the race of the future.

Sometimes the cat is in the form of a thoughtless or cruel husband, driving his wife beyond the powers of endurance during her weakened state, sapping her vitality, wrecking her constitution, sending her to an early grave, and leaving the little ones to the indifferent care of a home without a mother.

Again it is ambition, the desire to excel socially, the insane longing for excitement, or an unwillingness to assume the responsibilities of motherhood. A child nursed in the cradle of indifference becomes in itself an alien to the instinct of perpetuity.

But poverty is the most relentless of all destroyers. Its claws are sharp and its teeth vicious. The underfed mother can not properly nourish a child, and to be undernourished in infancy is to be undeveloped in mind and body, lacking in the force of intellect and brawn necessary to cope with the difficult problems of life.

If a valuable prize mare is in foal she receives every care, and so does the colt until after it passes the danger line. But it is not so with every wife who is about to become a mother, or with every child that is brought into the world.

The story of the mother bird and the cat is worthy of serious thought, for the lesson it teaches is vital import to the future of humanity.

There are too many cats abroad, ready to devour the mother of man.

The world is full of wise men and fools. The fool thinks he is a wise one, and the wise man sometimes makes a fool of himself. But study it out for yourself—our wife has just sent us a dinner call, and that's the time when we move.

A LANCASTER INTERVIEW

Mr. Davis Tells His Experience.

The following brief account of an interview with a Lancaster man four years ago, and its sequel, will be read with keen interest by every citizen. W. C. Davis, tailor, Danville Pike, Lancaster, says: "Some time ago my kidneys were in bad condition. I suffered with pains across my back and through my loins. My kidneys were irregular in action and I had to get up many times at night to pass the secretions. I had considerable stooping over to do and I became easily tired and languid. Doan's Kidney Pills brought relief and I think they are a fine kidney medicine."

Over four years later Mr. Davis said: "I am always glad to say a good word for Doan's Kidney Pills. When I have symptoms of kidney trouble Doan's are sure to give me relief." 69c. at all dealers. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

FOR CONGRESS.

We are authorized to announce
RALPH GILBERT, of Shelby county, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress in this, the Eighth Congressional District of Kentucky. State Primary Election,
Saturday, August 7, 1920.

FOR CONGRESS.

We are authorized to announce
COL. FRANK L. RIPPY, of Anderson county, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress in this, the Eighth Congressional District of Kentucky. State Primary Election, Saturday, August 7, 1920.

That round between King
Swope and Vernon Richardson over the Bonus Bill has brought from the pen of the Editor of the Advocate the following very readable editorial:
"The soldiers' bonus did not have its beginning among the soldiers themselves.

It is the scheme of politicians to solidify the soldier vote and in this one party is as guilty as the other.

It is not creditable to the intelligence and dignity of the soldiers that they should allow their fine patriotic organization to be used as a stepping stone to political preferment.
Individual opinion, the dearest possession one has in a republic, will be submerged in an indistinguishable mass. It will count for nothing in deciding a course of political conduct.

The very finest attribute of a soldier is the idea of sacrifice:
to be willing to lay honor, possession, even life itself on the country's altar as a sacrifice, has ever been the true soldier's ideal. The soldier's life cultivates the manly virtues of courage, endurance, independence, the pleasures of loyal comradeship and to taint these ideal-isms with a demand for a few paltry dollars from an already overburdened land convicts the soldiers of selfishness that has no place in a real soldier's life.

It is the common judgment that the discipline of the camp,
the tests of physical endurance and the trip abroad had such an ennobling influence upon character and a broadening of intelligence as to be counted a national asset of incalculable value. Can the soldier permit this exalted opinion of the noble part he has played to be used for base political aims or his own genuine patriotism to be besmirched with a few paltry dollars?

It is one of the weaknesses of human nature that the more there is done for us, the more we will have done. This is just the beginning of further and ever-enlarging raids on the nation's bounty. The soldier who accepts these bribes in the name of gratuities weakens his character and puts a black stain on his patriotism.
Which does the soldier prefer —to be remembered for his sacrifices and lofty ideals of patriotism or as hireling sup-plicants for gold and yet more and more gold as the years go by."

A POOR SELECTION.

There is one thing upon which we think the country will agree, that the republican candidate for president fits the platform adopted at Chicago.
The platform is the weakest that was ever announced by a great party.
Warren G. Harding as the nominee is thoroughly disappointing to the rank and file of the party throughout the nation. There is grumbling among republicans everywhere. Senator Harding is the most extreme stand pater in the nation. He is the boldest opposition to what the Bull Moose party fought for that the Republican party could have selected.
In fact, he as the nominee, is the product of the "Old Guard", a machine selected candidate. With such a header upon such a platform the Democrats take courage. The Democratic party has not had before such an opportunity. We have not approached a National convention to select a candidate for the Presidency with more odds in our favor than now. The platform on the greatest issue of the hour, the League of Nations, the republicans were lacking in courage to oppose it, and were too partisan to endorse it because a democratic president had a prominent part in working out the wonderful document. The voters of this nation, republicans as well as democrats are for the League of Nations and the Republicans are going to have some trouble in satisfying the voters with that candidate and that platform.
Warren G. Harding being from Ohio makes the demand for the nomination of Governor Cox all the greater.
The nomination of Cox would make the state of Ohio certain for Democracy it is claimed and for that reason the democratic nomination should go to the Ohio Governor. The chances for democratic success is better and brighter.

We Americans, in common with other peoples, are living in a restless age.

Before the world war all Europe slept on a volcano, dreading the day when the thunders of eruption would be heard. That eruption came almost in the twinkling of an eye, bathed two countries in the blood of millions of men, drove kings and em-perors from gilded thrones, deduced aristocrats from affluence to poverty and made civilization a mockery and a byword.

Release from the privations entailed by war, instead of sobering humanity, seems to have turned its head. Profiteers are legion and profligate spenders are even more numerous. Prodigality has swept us into a sea of uncertainty and conjecture from which not even the wisest ones can tell now or when we will emerge.

We are up in the air, knowing not which way to turn, or whether to turn or stand still, forge ahead or mark time.

It is a condition calculated to produce even the most aggravating form of restlessness in a people accustomed from our early days to a sane and simple existence.

Consider the gunman, what he is and what he does. He is one who is quick on the draw, a center shot, and a bunch of wickedness in the hide which God once made pure. He is a hero to vice and a terror to respectability. He kills want only and is proud of slaying. He glories in acts which all decent people abhor.
The daily press of our great cities are full of the exploits of gunmen, who should be stretching rope, but instead are taking life. The gunman is the product of corruption in politics and police forces, and of leniency on the part of courts and juries. A rigid enforcement of law in any community would soon eliminate the gunmen. They would be either dead, or in jail, or earning an honest living. But ward politics is ward politics and police forces are police forces in the big cities. The gang is too powerful for either.

A time will come when we as a people will emerge from our present condition of indifference to consequences. It may be a year, or two, or five, or more, and great changes may take place before we are again a normally moving people. But we Americans are not a class to be kept forever keyed up in a turmoil of excitement. In some way or other we will find our level and resume the wholesome existence we enjoyed before the world was set ablaze by the fires of war. It is a hope which buoys us up and reconciles us to the idiosyncracies of a people, people apparently gone mad in the game of life.

SURE RELIEF FROM ITCHING SKIN DISEASES

Will Never Come From Salves, Ointments, or Other Local Treatment.

A million gallons of lotions, ointments, salves or other forms of local treatment will not give any real permanent relief from skin diseases. Get this fact firmly in your mind, and there is hope for you.

If you have ever been afflicted with eczema, tetter, boils, eruptions, or other similar skin irritations you can appreciate the real terrifying discomfort that comes from these disorders. And what you are looking for is not merely temporary, palliative relief that may cause the terrible burning and itching to abate for awhile, but real genuine relief that shakes off the shackles of the disease, and restores the skin to its former healthy condition.

Follow the teachings of science, and you will learn that the skin is fed by the blood, and naturally, then, the condition of your skin will depend upon the condition of your blood. If the blood becomes infested with millions of tiny disease germs that attack the skin, then the fiery irritation and intense itching will remain with you until these germs are attacked at their source and removed from the blood.

Genuine relief, therefore, can only be expected from a treatment that goes right to the seat of the trouble, and strikes at its cause. Such a remedy is S. S. S., the reliable old blood purifier that kills the germs of disease, and sends a new supply of rich red blood coursing through the veins.

S. S. S. has been used successfully in some of the worst cases of eczema and other skin disorders, and it can be relied upon to cleanse the blood thoroughly of the germs which cause these complaints. S. S. S. is also a splendid tonic and system-builder, and it builds up and adds new vigor to the whole system.

Go to your drug store and get a bottle of S. S. S. today, and begin the right treatment for skin diseases. Then if you feel that your case requires special medical advice, you can obtain same without cost, by writing to Chief Medical Adviser, 13 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.

A TAG DAY ROMANCE

By JESSIE E. SHERWIN

(Copyright, 1920, Western Newspaper Union.)

It was tag day in the city and a young girl whose attire while neat and well fitting showed signs of mending and wear, stood at the corner of two busy streets, a cardboard in one hand, a white carnation in the other. She was forlornly sad as to face and eyes, staring vaguely at a smiling, pleasant lady who was one of the taggers. The latter had noted her depressed manner and on some intuitive impulse of kind heartedness had approached her with motherly interest and had said:

"You must wear the insignia of the day, dear. I know you are one of us in sentiment."

And then the true lady unobtrusively placing flower and card into the girl's hands, mingled with the crowd seeking real subscribers.

The tears came into the eyes of Verda Lund. Amid her loneliness a benign act of consideration meant much, but it emphasized the dreariness and destitution that faced her. Out of work, a stranger in a strange city, she had been compelled that morning to give up the cheap little room she occupied. She was faint and weak.

"Help the good cause!" hailed a brisk, cheery voice, and the abstracted Verda felt tag and flower drawn from her clasp and a bank note substituted.

Bewilderedly she looked up to note a smiling, genial young man. For a moment he seemed quite magnetized by her sorrowful, but soulful eyes. They transmitted to her a strange impressive thrill.

"I won't forget that lovely face in a hurry," he spoke to a companion.

"Oh, wait! wait!" cried Verda. "You have made a mistake," but the surging crowd had swallowed up the two men.

Almost stupidly she stood gazing at the dollar note. There was wafted from a near restaurant a tantalizing whiff of food. She turned towards it almost fiercely. Then she ran away from the temptation. She pushed aside the jostling multitude, starting ahead to try and discover some tagger to whom she could deliver the dollar. She battled her way even more strenuously. Ahead she made out the young man who had given her the money. Finally she neared him. She put out a hand to halt him. He was airily sweeping his lips with the sweet flower.

"Oh, please!" panted Verda, extending the bank note. "I am not a tagger. I had no right to take it."

There she wavered, there a sudden film came across her vision. She swayed weakly. Bryan Latham caught her in his arms as consciousness deserted her.

"Do not move, dear," spoke a gentle womanly voice many hours later and Verda stared vaguely about her. She lay upon a couch in the rest room of an office building. A screen was set across a corner of the apartment and the matron stood regarding her with a smile. "Will you not tell me something about yourself?" she asked. And Verda told her all of her poverty, of the flower and tag and of her temptation to assuage her hunger.

The matron wound a sympathizing arm about her. There were tears of tenderness and pity in her eyes. She went away and returned with a server containing a dainty, but strengthening repast, the first food of which Verda had partaken for a night and a day.

"It was Mr. Latham who left you here," the woman told her, "a true kind-hearted gentleman, if there ever was one. He was very anxious and interested. He seemed to surmise that you were in trouble. He has telephoned twice about you and wishes you to remain here until business hours are over."

"I am Mr. Latham's sister," interrupted an intruding voice, and a well-dressed lady appeared just beyond the edge of the screen. "Is this the young lady my brother told me about? He telephoned me and if I can be of any service to you let me be your friend."

She was married and had a family of two little children, and when the matron had taken her aside and talked with her in low tones Mrs. Warner returned to the side of Verda.

"You poor friendless dove!" she murmured, kissing her. "We are going to mend some of the injustice of life that has fallen to your lot. My auto is below and when you are strong enough to accompany me we will soon have you under a roof where you must welcome a long, perfect rest."

Verda Lund retired that night the guest of a true souled woman with plenty of spare for those she could help, and glad to bestow it. She did not mention her brother until several days later, and by that time her little ones had learned to idolize the stranger whose gratitude and joy made her love the whole world.

Very unobtrusively Bryan Latham came to the house at last. He did not obtrude himself upon Verda, but he could not conceal an interest her every time he met the glance of the pleading eyes that had thrilled him from the first.

"It was just a month ago that you came into my life," he told Verda when they were alone together one evening. "See how I cherish the memory," he added, and he drew out a little blank book and within it lay the tag and the faded carnation.

And when their wedding came about, it was two of the little Warner children who scattered the same reminder flower in the path of bride and groom.

250 ACRES OF LAND

FOR SALE PRIVATELY BY THE UNDERSIGNED OWNER.

This farm is midway between Bryantsville and Buena Vista, Garrard County, Kentucky, 1½ miles from either.

Will sell either with or without crops and this is as good allaround farm as can be found. See the crops of tobacco, corn, wheat, rye, oats, clover and timothy now growing and compare them with others. They speak for themselves.

The land lays as well as any land and if a man desires can have a 1½ mile track as good as the Lexington race tract, and will suit any race horse man. It is just rolling enough to drain well. It has on it a fine fish lake, several cemented pools and concrete tanks all fed by never failing springs—drouth or no drouth—distributed to every part of the place, and my stock gets nothing but pure, clean, running water, worth thousands of dollars to any good farm, and I would not have one without plenty of good water.

It has also a splendid modern 8-room frame residence, 2 twelve-foot halls above and below, bath room, pantry, and large wardrobes built in each room, a good servant's room in yard, garage, smoke, poultry and ice house, a 25x25 foot barn for cows and family horses.

Also one large stock barn and 300 barrel double crib and 1200 bushel wheat granary above. One 12 acre tobacco barn and have housed from 3 to 5 acres in stock barn.

Also a nice new weather-boarded, three room cottage and necessary buildings with fine water, well located.

Would prefer selling as a whole, but is susceptible to cutting into one-half dozen farms with splendid building sites and good outlets, with water for each and will sell to suit all purchasers as to quantity and easy terms. Convenient to Graded school and all churches. I have lived here, perfectly contented, since 1863, and would not now part with this home, but for my health and age. Neither of my two daughters having married a farmer—one a doctor and the other an insurance man—and both living in the West, I feel it my duty to spend my few remaining days with them. In buying from me you will have no commissions to pay. See me at once on the premises. I mean business.

Make
Your Home
a Cheerful Home

You can't expect folks to be happy and contented where the home is in half-darkness and premeated by the smell of smoky lamps. Every member of your family is entitled to all the bright electric light which city folks have. If somebody asked you to buy an expensive plant that simply furnished light and no more, you might have some good arguments against such a purchase, but when you think of a lighting plant that is also a plant capable of operating any and every small machine on your place, that is another matter.

Genco Light

is such a plant. In addition to being a perfect electric lighting plant, it has a pulley by which machines can be run while charging your batteries. When this is done, your lights cost practically nothing. Genco Light is such a positive labor saver that owners figure that this power practically takes the place of farm help. It certainly does enable the help to do more; or less help to do the same work. Genco Light is not a luxury—it is a servant that will increase production and pay for itself in actual dollars and cents. You really owe it to yourself to call here with your wife and see this wonderful plant at work. May we expect you?

THE SHELBY JETT FARM

NOW OWNED BY THE UNDERSIGNED.

308 Acres Fine Blue Grass Land

Subdivided into 50 to 200 acre tracts, well improved, gently rolling and up selling without reserve or limit.

LOCATION:—Seven miles from Richmond, two miles from Kirksville and graded school, on either side of pike, adjoining the lands of Thos. Curtis, and other good men (and these are assets in any community).

IMPROVEMENTS:—Handsome two story brick dwelling, must be seen to be appreciated, words will not describe the grandeur of of this ideal home and its beautiful surroundings; excellent water system, with gravity pressure, insuring a flow at all times at a minimum or no cost, two garages, two stock barns, three tobacco barns, two silos, four small houses, two of which are good ones of 5 rooms each, 180 gallon underground gasoline tank, ice houses and etc. Too much improvements? No, not an item out of proportion to this magnificent boundary of land.

We claim and stand open for public contradiction that there is no less than $250 per acre improvements on this 308 acres of land. Don't stand and say no, go see for yourself, place them at their fair value of today, they are absolutely essential, adding both to the comfort and necessities; then they are an asset to be credited to the cost of the land for if they were not there a liability would be encountered as you would have to have them. Bear these facts in mind and you can readily figure what the land is costing you.

150 ACRES FINE TOBACCO LAND— There is no less than 150 acres finest of tobacco land; 100 acres in old blue grass sod, and sand stone at that. It will pay for itself rented out. Opportunity knocks at the door of the man that can make the first payment; you will not have to bother about credit, it lies in the land and goes with the deed to the party or parties that buy it. Buildings on every tract.

MUSIC BY EXCELLENT BAND.

Any man who has a fond sweet wife who has more than borne her side of the ox yoke would love to work and save when a home like this was put ahead. Make your boys your partners if you want them to stay at home and fatten on the gold of life, you must leave the gate ajar, and let them have some of the picking; your home will be nearer what it should be and they had rather be there than any other place. Practice this and sell your automobile.

Now if any of you good women are afflicted with any of these husbands who see hard times coming, all the clouds look like a cyclone and lost their silver lining, if any of you ladies have a husband like this, a simple remedy justified by the unwritten law, ask Tony Burnam or any other lawyer, they will tell you; ask Moss Gibson or any other doctor in Richmond, if this simple remedy would not be the correct course to pursue:

Take your hog box filled with 50 pounds of ice, 40 gallons of stagnant pond water, use one gallon sheep dip, soak him three days until bugs are removed, then take a small oak board, whip him out of the tub lay him across a hemp brake in the sun, let him dry for six hours, give three dog buttons, using skimmed sour milk as a chaser, wrap him in a horse blanket, place him in a four-year old straw mattress, use a fly bush made of mullen stalks, see that bed bugs are diligent, have a loaded musket in easy reach of the patient. If he or she should feel like it would add to his or her comfort, see that it is properly used. And should death ensue, bury him with military honors omitting floral designs, except dog fennel blossoms; inscribe on marker: "Here rests his head on the lap of earth, a 'man' to fortune and to fame unknown, fair science 'smiled' not on his humble birth and melancholy marks him for her own."

The sale will last but fifty minutes, after which the band will play "Hold That Woodpile Down."

Terms announced at sale. For further particulars, see Covington Jett on the premises, or the undersigned.

THERE WAS A TIME

When you believed that the only way to plant corn was to drop the grain by hand and cover with the hoe.
When you believed that the only way to transplant tobacco was after a hard rain a natural season.
When you believed the only way of conveyance was horse-back with your wife or best girl riding behind you.
When you believed that a well graded dirt road was the best road on earth.
When you believed that the only way to make butter from cream was with the old dash churn.
When you believed that the only way to weave cloth and prepare wool was by the spinning wheel route.
When the air travel was looked upon as impossible.

THERE IS A TIME

The modern corn-planter, the tobacco transplanter, the automobile conveyance, the macadam road, the electric driven churn, the electric clothes washer, the woolen mills and thousands of factories are no longer disputed necessities and practical.

The Chevrolet car is the most practical automobile built today. It has all the conveniences of the modern, up-to-date automobile, it is especially designed for service and comfort. It stands alone in a record for economical fuel consumption expense of up-keep.

The motor is of the valve-in-head type which spells maximum economy. 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline is usual and though this may sound as of minor importance to you, if you do not care to save gasoline when the price is 32 cents per gallon you would possibly not patch a leak in your pocket when money was falling through. 150 to 200 miles on one quart of lubricating oil is the ordinary rate used by this motor. You realize that lubricating oil is costing 25 and 30 cents per quart. One Chevrolet user in Madison County makes oath that he runs 4,000 miles on 5 gallons of oil.

If not today, the time is rapidly coming when you will be convinced that it is the only car to buy.

Chevrolet is manufactured in a design to suit your particular need, Roadster, Roadster with light delivery body, touring cars (5 passenger) 2 passenger coupe, 5 passenger sedan, one-half ton light delivery wagons, one ton trucks fitted to suit farmers and all kinds of business.

is owned and controlled by the largest motors corporation in America, is the only light car built by this large corporation. is the very pride of this immense organization. stock is a valuable asset to any man or woman. will never cease to be a good car. Is the car you will meet most on your days journey in the future. Is being backed by millions of satisfied users. Is the car for you. The sooner you are convinced the larger your estate will be when handed over to your executor for distribution.

An exchange says that about the first time a woman meets a man she begins to tell him her troubles. But it's different with a man. He tells them to the judge.

Why Suffer?

Mrs. J. A. Cox, of Alderson, W. Va., writes: "My daughter... suffered terribly. She could not turn in bed... the doctors gave her up, and we brought her home to die. She had suffered so much at... time. Having heard of Cardui, we got it for her."

CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

"In a few days, she began to improve," Mrs. Cox continues, "and had no trouble at... Cardui cured her, and we sing its praises everywhere. We receive many thousands of similar letters every year, telling of the good Cardui has done for women who suffer from complaints so common to their sex. It should do you good, too. Try Cardui. To The Citizens of Lancaster, Ky.

Honorable Mayor, City Council and People of Lancaster, Ky:—

Whereas, the franchise now held by us is void by reason of being in conflict with the State Constitution, and

Whereas, we have no franchise for operating our plant in the City of Lancaster, Ky., because the same is void as aforesaid, the City Council of the City of Lancaster, Ky., and the public generally are hereby notified that we will on August 1st, 1920, or as soon thereafter as practical, move all our poles and electrical equipment from the streets of the city of Lancaster, Ky.

This notice is given as a legal notice, as we understand that reasonable notice must be given before we can remove said property and discontinue said plant.

We are willing to do anything we can to co-operate with the city in securing a franchise for the purpose of furnishing electric light and power to the citizens of the city, but we can not continue it further without expensive additional equipment, and this we can not do at the present rates and without a legal franchise protecting us in our rights.

Done this April 26th, 1920.

Respectfully submitted,

BASTIN BROTHERS,

By H. V. Bastin.
